Marshall T: 903.923.9002

Jennifer Truelove is a Principal in McKool Smith's Marshall office. Jennifer's trial skills have been sought after and used in a broad range of cases, including litigation involving intellectual property, antitrust, whistleblower, insurance recovery, and contract disputes. She has extensive experience in the Eastern District of Texas and has been involved in all aspects of trial, from jury selection to cross-examination of expert witnesses.

Prior to joining McKool Smith, Jennifer was the first assistant district attorney of Harrison County, Texas, where she prosecuted felony cases involving injury and assault of children and represented the Department of Family and Protective Services in cases where children and adults were taken into protective custody. During her seven-year tenure with the Harrison County District Attorney's Office, Jennifer honed her courtroom skills and became a particularly effective litigator in front of East Texas juries. She is also a trained mediator.
